

CONTENTS

Foreword x

Introduction 1

01 The role and importance of public relations in organizations 3

Why organizations must communicate 5

A short history of public relations 6

Where are we now? 12

The Edelman Trust Barometer 13

02 Key theories for public relations practitioners 15

Theory 1 – Shannon and Weaver – the ‘transmission’ model of communications 15

Theory 2 – James Carey – transportation/communications links 17

Theory 3 – Grunig and Hunt’s four models for public relations 19

Theory 4 – Robert Cialdini and influence 22

Theory 5 – Patrick Jackson and others – the ‘people change ladder’ 26

Theory 6 – Mendelsohn’s ‘Three Assumptions’ for success 27

Theory 7 – hierarchy of effects theory of persuasion 28

Theory 8 – Elaboration Likelihood Model (ELM) 31

Theory 9 – Emotional Intelligence (EI) 33

Theory 10 – Public relations as diplomacy 34

Theory 11 – the rhetorical and ethical orientation of PR 35

Theory 12 – Postmodernist PR theory 36

03 The professional public relations practitioner 39

Working as a communications /PR professional 40

Personal qualities and professional/business skills 41

Getting started in communications 41

Where will I work? 48

Training and qualifications in public relations 49

Client/consultancy contracts 53

Taking care of yourself 55

04 Planning and evaluating public relations 59

Communications planning – writing a brief 62
Best practice in communications planning 65
Planning and evaluating PR 89

05 Public relations, marketing and related disciplines 93

Definitions of marketing 94
What is the Marketing Mix? 95
Is it seven Ps now? 96
Three new Ps for the 21st century (and all because of Web 2.0) 97
Marketing, communications and customer-relationship management 97

06 Understanding audiences 103

Definitions 103
Introduction 104
Thinking about stakeholders 105
From stakeholder to target audience 110
Collecting the right data 111
Types of research 112
Psychological insight 115
Erik Erikson and life stages 118
Myers-Briggs Type Indicator® (MBTI®) 119
Neuro-Linguistic Programming for public relations practitioners 120
Drawing this all together – developing strategies for public relations 123

07 Using the right communications channels and tactics Channels for impact 127

Channels for impact 127
Digital 129
Traditional (aka elite) media 156
Ethics the media–post–Leves on... where now? 158
Face-to-face 184
Print 192
Further reading 195

08 Creativity in public relations 197

Big ideas about creativity 200
The creative process 201

Twelve ways to wake up your creativity and solve problems 202
Summary 215

09 Visual communications 217

Photography for PR 219
Visual aids 220
Briefing designers 228
What does your typeface say about you? 230

10 Public relations for issues, incidents and crises 233

Introduction 233
Definitions 235
Risk audit and analysis 236
A word on ‘wicked problems’ 237
Issues Management 238
The Lifecycle of an issue 242
Crisis management 243
One final point 251
Evaluating issues and crisis management 252
Further reading 254

11 Essential skills for the PR practitioner 255

Introduction 255
Writing 255
Further reading 275
Interpersonal skills – and briefing skills 275
Body language as a key part of communications 282
Presentation skills 298

Afterword 311

Appendix 1: Chartered Institute of Public Relations Code of Conduct and Complaints Procedure 313

Appendix 2: Cross cultural communications 343

Bibliography 355

Index 361