

CONTENTS

About the authors ix

About the contributors x

Introduction 1

PART ONE The challenges 17

01 The challenge of outside-in 19

Opportunities missed by businesses that are not customer-centred 20

The effect of your silos on your customers 24

Failure to balance the tension between the commercial model and providing an amazing experience 25

Key takeaways 27

Reference 28

02 The challenge of vision 29

Why you need a vision 30

Why is it so hard to translate a vision into reality? 31

Key takeaways 38

03 The challenge of fast and slow 41

What goes wrong when ‘fast’ and ‘slow’ progress aren’t managed together? 42

How can fast and slow be managed together? 45

Agile development within the framework of a vision 46

Early results are vital in signalling that the intention to change is real 48

Key takeaways 48

Reference 49

04 The challenge of emotion 51

Why do we forget the emotion? 52

The triggers of positive emotions can be designed-in 53

Key takeaways 59

References 60

05 The challenge of distinctiveness 61

How brand expression has given way to customer experience 62

Moving from 'brand expression' to 'your customer experience is your brand' 62

The service proposition 65

Why do we find it hard to create truly distinctive services? 67

Key takeaways 70

06 The challenge of change 71

Your organizational structure might be working against you 72

Just can't find the time 73

People don't feel accountable for their part of the total experience 73

It's hard for people to let go of their departmental objectives and operate as one team 74

The organization isn't committed 75

A fresh approach to change that resonates with the world of Design 75

Key takeaways 79

Reference 79

PART TWO The skills 81

07 Create a compelling vision 83

A compelling vision for your service gives your decision-making a strong purpose 84

A compelling vision motivates people 86

What makes your vision compelling? 87

How to create a compelling vision 91

Key takeaways 96

References 97

08 Design your service beautifully 99

Why design beautifully? 100

What makes a service beautifully designed? 100

Four skills to help you tune in to beautiful service design 105

Key takeaways 108

09 Develop a clear value case 109

Why is developing a clear value case so important? 110

What makes a case clear? 111

How to create a clear case 114

Key takeaways 119

10 Make it ready to build 121

Why is creating a specification and plan that is ready to build so important? 122

How to make your Design Package ready to build 124

Service Vision Wheel 126

Concept of Experience 129

Target (To-be) Customer Journey 130

Service Blueprint 133

Service Flatplan 134

Design for the 'unhappy path' and the moments the service fails 136

Key takeaways 142

Reference 143

11 Create the right conditions 145

Why is creating the right conditions so important? 146

How to set and sustain the right conditions 148

Key takeaways 156

References 156

12 Run engaging projects 157

Why is it so important for your project to be engaging and enjoyable to work on? 157

How can you make your project the project people want to work on? 160

Key takeaways 166

References 167

13 Think like a Designer 169

Why is it important to think like a Designer? 170

What's worth designing well? 175

How can you start to think and work like a Designer? 177

Key takeaways 184

References 185

Conclusion 187

Index 195

To access additional resources please go to:

www.koganpage.com/CDT

or:

www.customerdrivenbook.com