

CONTENTS

Foreword xiii

Preface xvii

Acknowledgements xix

PART ONE Setting the scene 1

01 Leading in a new era 3

PART TWO Leadership frameworks and research 9

Overview 9

02 Leadership traits and characteristics 11

03 Contingency theories 17

04 Situational leadership 25

05 Psychodynamics, power and the shadow 30

06 Transformational and transactional leadership 44

07 Strategic and innovation leadership 54

08 Change leadership 67

09 Leadership responsibility and values 79

10	Leading across organizations and networks	92
11	Leadership health: mind, body and spirit	103
	An overall map of leadership	114
	Conclusions from Part Two	124
	PART THREE	Learning to lead in practice 127
	Overview	127
12	What does 21st-century leadership require?	129
13	How do leaders learn?	136
14	Levels of leadership maturity	143
	Conclusions from Part Three	161
	PART FOUR	You and your development 163
	Overview	163
15	Taking stock and self-rating	165
16	Clarifying your goals and intended outcomes	186
	Conclusions from Part Four	208
	PART FIVE	The Five Leadership Qualities framework 209
	Overview	209

17 Introduction to the Five Qualities framework 211

Chapters 18–22 each contain

*Key characteristics | Core and advanced skills | Description of quality |
Self-rater | Research insights | Embodying the quality | Too much? |
Typical barriers | 15 quick experiments | Case studies and reflective questions*

18 Tenacious Implementer 221

19 Measured Connector 239

20 Visionary Motivator 257

21 Thoughtful Architect 275

22 Edgy Catalyser 291

23 Becoming masterful! 308

Conclusions from Part Five 318

PART SIX Leadership and organizations 321

Overview 321

24 Defining leadership culture 323

25 Changing leadership culture 337

26 The implications of Millennial leadership 347

Conclusions from Part Six 357

Appendix: The original research 359

Index 373