

CONTENTS

About the authors	xiii
Foreword	xvii
Acknowledgements	xxi
Preface	xxiii

PART ONE

Theoretical and strategic foundations 1

01 A definition of brands, branding and brand management 3

Reading outcomes	3
Introduction	3
Overview	4
Some working definitions of ‘brand’	4
Some types of brands	7
A practical definition of branding and brand management	14
A brief history of branding	16
Branding in an era of consumer control	19
Building the brand by inspiring behaviour	20
Guest perspective from Jorg Borgwardt, Germany: Why brands fail	21
Extended case study: Product and brand are not the same – the story of Oreo cookies in China and India	23
Key terms	25
Discussion questions	26
Notes	26

02 The strategic role branding plays 29

Reading outcomes	29
Introduction	29
Overview	30
Long live the brand. The brand is dead. Why the brand is important to marketers	30
Determining the value of the brand	34
Brands should live forever, but sometimes they need to be rebranded	37
Guest perspective from Ricardo Monteiro, Portugal: Brand building in our changing world	40

Extended case study: Volkswagen, the fall of a brand 44

Key terms 46

Discussion questions 46

Notes 46

03 Internal branding versus external branding 51

Reading outcomes 51

Introduction 51

Overview 52

Welcome to the employee-customer brand experience continuum 52

Why internal branding is often more important than external branding 55

Customer journeys and mapping the brand contacts 58

Segmenting prospects 63

Some final words on the owners and shareholders 64

Guest perspective from Rick Ray, USA: 21st-century brand storytelling 65

Extended case study: The Story of the manifesto that helped turn Samsung into a global brand 67

Key terms 69

Discussion questions 69

Notes 69

04 Programmatic and other technology in the service of brands 73

Reading outcomes 73

Introduction 73

Overview 74

Branding versus the drive for innovation 74

The Huda Kattan brand start-up and social media 75

The new-for-the-sake-of-new versus the smart-new 76

MarTech and why it matters for branding 77

Cybersecurity as a form of brand protection 79

Guest perspective from Jens Ulrik Hansen, Switzerland: The impact of the digital shift on brands and branding 81

Extended case study: McDonald's move into China and India and the resulting lessons for successful global brand management 83

Food, folks and fun in China 84

Going vegetarian in India 85

A new digital brand experience in Poland 86

Other assorted brand lessons, rules and guidelines from McDonald's 87

Key terms 89

Discussion questions 89

Notes 89

PART TWO

Practical and tactical applications 93

05 Brand foundational development 95

Reading outcomes 95

Introduction 95

Overview 96

Welcome to the never-ending brand development process 96

Selecting a brand name or would Apple have been Apple with a different name? 99

Launching a new brand 100

Growing a brand after the launch 101

Reaching the brand's maturity stage 103

The eventual, but not inevitable, decline of a brand 104

An overview of brand foundational elements 106

Pyramids, onions, keys, ladders and maps – tools for displaying the brand foundations 109

Validating the brand foundation 110

Research methods to validate your brand 111

Guest perspective from Ashley Galina Dudarenok, China: How international brands can succeed in China 112

Extended case study: The global branding of Coca-Cola 114

Key terms 115

Discussion questions 116

Notes 116

06 Creating the brand foundational elements 121

Reading outcomes 121

Introduction 121

Overview 122

Set your sights on visual branding 122

It's all in the name – some key considerations 124

Audio: The next biggest sense for branding 126

Why branded scents can make sense 128

Branding through the sense of touch 129

Even a product's taste is part of its branding element 129

The illy coffee brand 130

Guest perspective from Chris Malone, USA: The surprising truth about faces, logos and loyalty 132

Extended case study: The big brand dilemmas of Harley Davidson	135
Key terms	136
Discussion questions	137
Notes	137

07 Branding and the marketing communication ecosystem 141

Reading outcomes	141
Introduction	141
Overview	142
Blah blah blah: Some words on advertising and other marketing communication channels	142
Some direct comments	144
Retail atmospherics	146
Packaging priorities	148
Shopper marketing in brand building	149
Social, mobile, digital and more	149
The importance of public relations for brand building	151
Direct selling for global brands	152
Post-sales customer support	154
Guest perspective from Bill Rodi, USA: Shopper marketing	155
Extended case study: The Tropicana packaging redesign disaster	160
Key terms	161
Discussion questions	162
Notes	162

08 Brand management 165

Reading outcomes	165
Introduction	165
Overview	166
Taking a brand global and the people who do it	166
Maintaining a brand	169
Evolving and extending a brand	170
Refreshing and rebranding	171
Seven reasons for rebranding	173
The when, why and how of co-branding	174
Does the job title ‘brand manager’ mean what it says?	175
A brand manager’s job description	177
Guest perspective from Michaël Boumendil, France: Branding across borders	180
Extended case study: Rotary International’s global rebranding	182

Key terms 184
Discussion questions 184
Notes 185

PART THREE

Branding issues and opportunities 189

09 Branding in a global economy 191

Reading outcomes 191
Introduction 191
Overview 192
Key management considerations and strategies 193
How to build an international brand for a single medical tourism provider 196
Branding one Korean medical tourism provider for global consumption 197
Conditions for success in new local markets 200
Local customization of multinational brands 204
Guest perspective from Paolo Mercado, Philippines: Global brands in a local world – the challenge of brand building across multiple countries 204
Extended case study: Philips, a study in healthy innovation 208
Key terms 210
Discussion questions 211
Notes 211

10 Brand architecture 217

Reading outcomes 217
Introduction 217
Overview 218
Do you want to have a house of brands or a branded house? 218
Finding a home in a house of brands 220
Products, services and sub-brands that live within a branded house 223
Brand portfolio rationalization 226
Guest perspective from Lubna Nafees, India and the US: Brands going global 228
Extended case study: The reorganization of General Motors' brand architecture 232
Key terms 234
Discussion questions 234
Notes 234

11 Speciality application areas 239

Reading outcomes 239

Introduction 239

Overview 240

Why experience determines the types of brands you'll manage 240

Tangible comments about non-tangible service brands 243

Public thoughts on private-label brands 244

What to put into an ingredient brand? 246

Celebrities and influencers and their place in global brand management 247

The success and longevity of luxury brands 249

How to build a brand for a country's tourism and commerce sectors through place branding 252

Example request for proposal 253

Guest perspective from Dr Karen Sutherland, Australia: Key considerations when using social media in the marketing mix of a global brand 255

Extended case study: A brief look at the quick global growth the Xiaomi brand 258

Key terms 260

Discussion questions 261

Notes 261

12 Digital asset management and other strategies for managing brands 265

Reading outcomes 265

Introduction 265

Overview 266

Tools for managing a global brand 266

Managing a global brand beyond the brand-guidelines manual 275

Centralized brand-compliance resources 276

Some failed attempts at creating a consistent and appropriate brand message 278

Onwards 279

Guest perspective from John Morrow, USA: How technology enables global brand management 279

Extended case study: Virgin, a different kind of global brand 282

Key terms 284

Discussion questions 285

Notes 285

Index 287