

Contents

	List of Figures	xii
	Walkthrough	xiv
Chapter 1	Preface and introduction	1
	1.1 Introduction	1
	1.2 Why this book was written	2
	1.3 Features of this book	3
	1.4 The level of this book	4
	1.5 The layout of this book	5
	1.6 Dissertations and university degrees	6
	1.7 Quatitative and qualitative research	6
	1.8 What skills are assessed in dissertations?	7
	1.9 How is your work marked?	7
	1.10 Plagiarism, and how to avoid it	7
	1.11 The supervision process	9
	1.12 Ten top tips for on-time completion	10
	1.13 Excellent and poor dissertations	10
	Summary: Key Learning Points	11
Chapter 2	Strategies for finding and developing a dissertation topic	12
	2.1 Introduction	12
	2.2 Strategies for finding a topic	12
	The Burning Desire strategy	12
	The Replication strategy	13
	The Career Goals strategy	15
	The Practical Problem strategy	15
	The Convenient Access strategy	16
	The Tutor-Driven strategy	16
	The Development of Earlier Work strategy	16
	The Important Problem strategy	17
	2.3 Checking out the topic area	18
	Searching for similar work	18
	What if I cannot find any of these things?	18
	The attributes of a good dissertation topic	19
	Carrying out a resources audit	19
	Early access issues	20
	Early methodology issues	21
	2.4 Considering your own desires and motivations	21
	Auditing your existing skills	22
	Investigating your motivation	24
	Auditing your time	25
	Summary: Key Learning Points	28
	Explore Further	28

Chapter 3	The key skills tested in the dissertation	29
3.1	Introduction	29
3.2	Communicating assessment criteria	29
3.3	Knowledge	35
3.4	Understanding	35
3.5	Analysis	36
3.6	Critique	38
	Checklist for critique	39
3.7	Synthesis and creativity	39
3.8	Evaluation	40
	Summary: Key Learning Points	43
	Explore Further	44
Chapter 4	The research proposal	45
4.1	Introduction	45
4.2	The purpose of the research proposal	46
	Organising and developing your topic ideas	46
	Testing the scope of the research	46
	Identifying an appropriate supervisor	46
	Convincing your supervisor of the merit in your ideas	47
	Initiating progress on the research	47
	Gaining support and early access rights	47
	As a foundation for developing your research	47
4.3	The contents of the research proposal	47
	The main sections of a research proposal	48
	Detailed sections of the research proposal	48
	Summary: Key Learning Points	57
	Explore Further	58
Chapter 5	How can I manage my time and complete on time?	59
5.1	Introduction	59
5.2	Dissertation timeline	59
	Effective dissertation start date	61
	Other life and study commitments	61
	Unforeseen events	61
5.3	The project life cycle	62
5.4	Task planning	63
	A short note on estimating the time a task will take	64
5.5	Specialised areas to be managed	66
	Bibliographical data	66
	Managing the supervision process	68
	Reading and recording source notes	69
5.6	The effective use of time	73
	Procrastination	73
5.7	Using electronic means to submit on time	78

5.8	The main barriers to on-time completion	80
	Summary: Key Learning Points	82
	Explore Further	82
Chapter 6	Theory and literature	84
6.1	Introduction	84
6.2	The importance of the literature review	84
	Supporting and embedding your dissertation with known theory and research	85
	Proving you know the research area	85
	Providing an opportunity to display the skills of analysis, critique and evaluation	85
	Providing the building blocks of method, methodology and data analysis	86
	Offering a perspective on your research	87
	Providing knowledge of secondary sources	87
	Providing a synthesis of literature that can bring new insights to an area of research	88
6.3	The literature review process	88
	Primary and secondary sources	89
	The academic funnel	89
	How to proceed	90
	Scanning the literature	91
6.4	Sources of theory and literature	92
	Textbooks	92
	Journal sources	93
	Best practice websites	96
	Social data sets	97
	Summary: Key Learning Points	99
	Explore Further	100
Chapter 7	Methodology	101
7.1	Introduction	101
7.2	Methodology and epistemology	102
	Induction and deduction	102
	Positivist and subjectivist	102
	Quantitative and qualitative	102
	Testing and exploring	103
	Participant and objective	103
7.3	Sampling	103
	Concepts	103
	Methods of sampling	104
	Probability sampling	105
	Non-probability sampling	106
7.4	Questionnaires	106

	The appropriate use of questionnaires	106
	Preliminary points to consider	107
	Method of administration	108
	Data types	109
	Devising questions	110
	Design	111
	Creating a Google doc survey	115
7.5	Interviews	119
	The skills required for interviewing	119
	Types of interview	121
7.6	Commonly-used methods	123
	Observation	123
	Ethnographic studies	124
	Repertory grid technique	125
	Diaries	125
	Reliving	125
	Action research and participatory research	126
	Role play	126
	Oral history techniques	126
	Narrative research	127
7.7	Notes and definitions in the research process	127
	Triangulation	127
	Multiple methods	128
	Primary and secondary data and sources	129
7.8	Ethics	129
	Ethical considerations for research involving human participants	129
	Judgements about harming participants	130
	Obtaining informed consent	130
	Relationships characterised by honesty	142
	The Data Protection Act	143
	Summary: Key Learning Points	144
	Explore Further	145
Chapter 8	Data, and how to analyse it	146
8.1	Introduction	146
8.2	Preparing data	146
	Coding closed questions	146
	Coding open questions	148
	Open question frequency	149
8.3	Content analysis	150
8.4	Validating data	152
	Weighting cases	153
8.5	Choosing the tool for analysis	154

	Survey software	154
	Excel spreadsheet	156
	Access database	159
	SPSS software	159
8.6	Qualitative data	162
	The transcription of non-text sources	162
	Alternatives to full transcription	163
	Summary: Key Learning Points	167
	Explore Further	168
Chapter 9	Data analysis and representation	169
9.1	Introduction	169
9.2	Analysis and explaining: an overview	169
9.3	Describing quantitative data	172
	The average	172
	The median	172
	The mode	173
	The range	173
	The standard deviation	174
9.4	Trends, distributions and proportions in quantitative data	179
	Frequency tables	180
	Creating categories from data	180
	Trends	183
	Cross-tabulations	185
9.5	Inferential statistics	186
	Probability	187
	Confidence	187
	Hypotheses and significance	188
	The chi-square statistic	189
	Other tests and statistics	190
9.6	Qualitative data: an overview	193
	The structure of data	193
	Validity	194
	Size	194
	Inductive and deductive	195
	Follow-up research	195
	Research point of view	195
9.7	Qualitative data analysis	195
	Content analysis	196
	Template analysis	200
	Case study analysis	202
	Repertory grid technique	204
	Critical incident analysis	206

	Grounded theory	209
9.8	Linking analysis to theory	211
	Hypothesis testing or quantitative techniques	211
	Qualitative data	211
	Approaches in between the purely deductive and the inductive	212
	Summary: Key Learning Points	214
	Explore Further	214
Chapter 10	The craft of writing, and introductions and conclusions	215
10.1	Introduction	215
10.2	Developing good writing habits	216
10.3	The macro approach to academic writing	218
	Creative thinking	221
	Selection	222
10.4	Effective micro writing	222
	Sentences	222
	The comma	224
	The semicolon	224
	The colon	225
	Run-on sentences	225
	Understanding the structure of paragraphs	225
	Linking and signposting	227
	Argumentative errors, and how to avoid them	228
	Practical tasks when creating a dissertation	229
10.5	The structure of a dissertation	230
	Formatting your dissertation	231
10.6	Introductions and conclusions	232
	The introduction	232
	The conclusion	232
	Reports	233
10.7	Referencing	233
	Working pattern with references	234
	Bibliography	236
	Summary: Key Learning Points	239
	Explore Further	239
Chapter 11	Reviewing and evaluating your dissertation	240
11.1	Introduction	240
11.2	Techniques for reviewing your work: general comments	240
	Macro writing	241
	Micro writing	242
11.3	How to meet your word target	245
11.4	Other review techniques	247
	Fragmentation technique	247

Tutor help with reviewing your dissertation	249
11.5 Evaluate your work using the assessment criteria	249
11.6 Reflecting on the experience	249
Summary: Key Learning Points	251
Explore Further	252
Index	253