

CONTENTS

About the author xiv

Foreword by Debbie Whitaker xv

Acknowledgements xix

Introduction 1

PART ONE A practical guide to implementing strengths-based recruitment and development 5

01 An introduction to strengths-based recruitment 7

What is strengths-based recruitment (SBR)? 8

What are the origins of SBR? 10

How is SBR different? 14

A brief history of recruitment 14

What are the alternatives to SBR? 17

The competency-based approach to selection 18

How is each stage of the recruitment process affected by SBR? 22

The different SBR methodologies 25

Useful questions 27

Tips for the practitioner 27

References 28

02 Why do organizations implement strengths-based recruitment? 30

The benefits, in a nutshell 31

The evidence 33

Checklist 48

Useful questions 48

Tips for the practitioner	50
References	52
Notes on organizations referenced in this chapter	52

03 How does strengths-based recruitment work in practice? 54

Definitions and approaches	54
Selecting out or selecting in?	55
Selecting without compromise	59
Strengths-based interviewing	60
The two main SBR approaches and how they work	62
Useful questions	66
Tips for the practitioner	66
Strengths-based interviews – FAQs	67
References	70

04 Successfully implementing strengths-based recruitment 71

The factors for successfully implementing SBR	72
Pitfalls to avoid	86
Lessons learned from organizations that have implemented SBR	87
Advice from senior leaders to other senior executives who are thinking of implementing SBR	89
Tips for the practitioner	92
References	92
Notes on organizations referenced in this chapter	93

05 Strengths-based development and performance management 95

The problem mindset	95
The strengths-based approach to developing and managing people	96
The problem with traditional performance management and development approaches	98
What is strengths-based performance management?	99
What is involved in a strengths-based performance management process?	100

What is strengths-based development?	108
How does strengths-based development and performance management work in practice?	110
What's the case for strengths-based development and performance management?	112
Frequently asked questions	116
Tips for the practitioner	117
References	118
Strengths assessment tools referenced in this chapter	119

06 Putting strengths at the heart of your talent management strategy 120

What is talent management?	121
What do we mean by talent?	122
What's important about talent management?	122
How a strengths approach to talent management can transform organizational culture	123
Implementing a strengths-based talent management strategy	124
Where to start?	126
Elements of a talent management strategy and what makes them strengths-based	127
The strengths-based organization	132
Advice for senior leaders	135
Tips for the practitioner	136
References	136
Notes on organizations referenced in this chapter	137

07 Well-being and happiness 138

Definitions: subjective well-being, life satisfaction and happiness	139
Why is it important to understand happiness and well-being?	139
The characteristics of happy people	140
The role of passion and meaning	143
How important is our work to our well-being?	143
Lessons for leaders and practitioners	146
References	147

08 The future of strengths 149

The changing context 150

Start with a question 157

What if? 157

The strengths revolution is within your reach... 158

References 159

PART TWO Real-life insights and stories 161

09 Interviews with senior leaders 163

Professor Hilary Chapman, CBE, Chief Nurse, Sheffield
Teaching Hospitals 163

Lynda Greenshields, HR Director, Acromas Group,
2011–14 168

Professor Katherine Fenton, OBE, Chief Nurse,
University College London Hospitals NHS Foundation
Trust, 2010–15 175

Helen Lamont, Nursing and Patient Services Director, Newcastle
upon Tyne Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust 180

Sandra Porter, HR Director, Starbucks UK and Ireland,
2007–11 183

Samantha Rockey, Head of Leadership Development,
SABMiller 187

Eva Sage-Gavin, Executive Vice President of Human Resources and Corporate Affairs, Gap Inc, 2003–14 191

Professor Janice Sigsworth, Director of Nursing, Imperial College Healthcare NHS Trust 195

References 197

10 Interviews with managers and recruiters 198

Karen Coles, Nurse Staffing Review Project Lead, Newcastle
upon Tyne Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust 198

Nick Corbo, Director of Customer Experience and Agent
Development, Saga 201

Charlotte Henderson, former Team Leader, financial services business 204

Debbie Hutchinson, Assistant Director of Nursing, King's College Hospital NHS Foundation Trust 207
Keith Jones, Recruitment and Management Information
Manager, financial services company 210
Elisabeth Pullar, Senior Nurse, Professional Practice Team,
Guy's and St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust 213
Reference 215

11 Interviews with people who transitioned from the wrong job to the right job 216

Mike Blake: from Technical Specialist to Sales Manager to Executive Briefing Consultant (IBM UK Ltd) 216
Joel Davies: from Woodwork Tool Apprentice to Hairdresser/Hairdressing Salon Owner 224
Martin North: from Salesman to Marketing Manager
(US-based e-commerce football speciality retailer) 230
David Reebok: from Trader to Business Owner/CEO 239
Strateas Scotis: from Physiotherapist to Assistant Coffee
Shop Manager (Costa) 242
Lynne Stainer: from Accident Claims Negotiator/Manager to Florist (own business) 249
Reference 257

Further reading 258

Index 260