

CONTENTS

Foreword x

Preface xii

Acknowledgements xvi

Introduction 1

01 The information overload and the way it's changing us 9

The scale of the overload 12

Disproportionate effect of overload on millennial adults 14

How overload is changing the media 19

How news is changing 22

How the world is actually getting better 26

No information is correlated with 'nothing happening' 27

Disproportionate effect of overload on women 29

Conclusion 36

02 How did we allow ourselves to become so overloaded? 37

Competition and confidence 41

What are the problems in the system? 43

What should education be trying to do? 46

Two worlds, still too far apart 47

How it can be different 52

Art used in science 56

Conclusion 62

03 The 'always on' environment and its effect 63

Understanding the Type A 74

The meeting 77

The greeting 78
Office layouts 79
Conclusion 82

04 Your brain and how to use it 83

What you are capable of 90
The impact of overload on the structures 90
The left-brain process 93
The right-brain process 93
The left and right in history and culture 97
So is the left brain, right brain a dead end? 98
The awkward interview 98
The boring presentation 101
When things go wrong: the link between creativity,
mental illness and depression 102
Flow and pulse: the way to sustainable creativity 104
Conclusion 107

05 Sleep matters 109

The link between technology and sleep 120
The role of light 122
The link between technology and general well-being 123
Conclusion 125

06 Where great ideas come from 127

The 'to-do list' versus the 'to-be list' 131
The sense of flow 132
The big inhibitors 134
Fear 136
Mastery and failure 139
The power of art 141
Truth, beauty and aesthetics 144
Conclusion 145

07 Generating better ideas 147

Generating better ideas: it's all about you 147
The Eight Creative Traits (QED3RPT) 152

Generating better ideas: it's all about others	158
Training principles	163
So, what else do you need to know?	165
Taking others into the zone	168
The Rise Academy at LEWIS	171
The Rise Four I's Creative Cycle	175
Conclusion	178

08 How leaders apply creativity 179

A business success that doesn't understand business	180
Fighter	181
The outsider's insider	182
An unlikely CEO	184
'You can't polish a turd'	188
Expelled for reading too much	190
Just your average cat-breeding, stargazing, portrait-painting, military reservist politician	193
Complete focus	194
The power of logic and emotion in leading the Royal Navy	197
Conclusion	200

Confession 201

Index	205
--------------	-----